

December 17, 2020

Dear Faculty, Staff, Residents, Fellows and Students,

You are invited to attend a second School of Medicine virtual town hall on Monday, Dec. 21 from 1-2 p.m., to hear more about COVID-19 vaccines. The town hall will provide information including vaccine safety, efficacy, and side effects. No registration required.

Speakers will include:

William Powderly, MD

Larry J. Shapiro Director, Institute for Public Health
Associate Dean for Clinical and Translational Sciences
Director, Institute for Clinical and Translational Sciences,
J. William Campbell Professor of Medicine,
Co-Director, Division of Infectious Diseases
Washington University School of Medicine

Hilary Babcock, MD, MPH

Medical Director, Departments of BJC Infection Prevention & Epidemiology Consortium
Medical Director, Occupational Health, Barnes-Jewish and St. Louis Children's Hospitals
Professor of Medicine, Washington University School of Medicine

Rachel Presti, MD, PhD

Medical Director, Infectious Diseases Clinical Research Unit
Associate Professor of Medicine
Washington University School of Medicine

Ebony Carter, MD, Assistant Professor, Maternal-Fetal Medicine; Chief, Division of Clinical Research, will be on the panel to answer questions about pregnancy as time allows during the Q&A session.

If the Zoom session exceeds 1,000 and you cannot enter, please use the YouTube link below to attend.

To view on Zoom: wustl-hipaa.zoom.us/j/93300970729

To view on YouTube: youtu.be/62GYi-00Nws

Questions are welcome via the Q&A feature on Zoom (question feature not available on YouTube).

For those not able to attend, the session will be recorded and posted for viewing on the Washington University School of Medicine COVID-19 website.

Most sincerely,

David H. Perlmutter, MD
Executive Vice Chancellor for Medical Affairs
Spencer T. and Ann W. Olin Distinguished Professor
George and Carol Bauer Dean, School of Medicine

Paul Scheel, MD
Associate Vice Chancellor for Clinical Affairs
CEO, Washington University Physicians